The Business Council of New York State is endorsing Charter Communication's $55 billion deal to acquire Time Warner Cable.

The Business Council, which has 2, 400 business members wrote a July 24 letter to the state Public Service Commission saying the deal would be good for both businesses and consumers since Charter is planning to offer higher-speed Internet to Time Warner Cable customers at a cheaper price.

Here is an excerpt from the letter:

the State of New York. New Charter would offer New Yorkers better products at more affordable rates. Their slowest broadband tier of 60 Mbps would be cheaper than comparable offerings from Time Warner, allowing several people in the same house to stream high-definition video at the same time. Existing Time Warner customers, including local businesses, would also benefit from hassle-free updates to digitization, Charter's cloud-based guide and its Worldbox CPE system set-top box. Moreover, New Charter will invest $2.5 billion in commercial areas beyond where they currently operate, adding competition to the commercial sector, and build out one million line extensions into residential areas, giving rural and underserved areas access to high-speed service.

Such improvements will be important for the average New Yorker in the new company's service area. Everyday demands for broadband at home are increasing as families turn to the Internet and other online applications not only for personal communications and entertainment but also for teleworking needs and operation of connected home devices such as security, child monitoring and utility-usage controls.

The Retail Council of New York State, the Adirondack Regional Chamber of Commerce and the Mohawk Valley EDGE have also written the PSC in support of the merger.
